ALTHOUGH the appointment of Mr. WADE as Minister at Pekin is little more than was to be expected in the natural course of events, the appoundment is one of much importance at the present time. The selection will not meet the views of the large majority of the residents in China, who have long been hoping Glover. J. C. Opstelten, A. Britto, C. H. In the position of Secretary of Legation, or even of Charge d'Affaires, he cannot rely upon that support from Governme which is essential to any Diplomatic functionary when it is necessary for him to adopt a decisive attitude; and at least some of Mr. WADE avacillation may be accounted for upon this score: Sir Butherford Alcock, whose only anxiety was to keep well with the Home Government, and who was consequently At about 2 a.m. Chan akwai was awoke by willing to go almost any lengths in carrying out their laises aller policy, was scarcely the best man to lessen any tendency to tempo- tho rising to which Mr. WADE'S predelictions might incline him; and it is quite possible that when he has the reins placed in his ownhands, he will be disposed to adopt a firmer attitude than has hitherto been the case. We have at all events in Mr. Wans a Minister who thoroughly understands not only the language, but the ways and habits of the Chinese; and who from his experience in regard to the Tientain Massacre has no doubt learnt a lesson in the direction in which he seemed most to require one, that is, in using caution in accepting ready-made explanations from native sources. THE SECOND ARMADA.

(Times.)

(A CHAPTER OF FUTURE HISTORY.) Tis the supset of life gives me mystical lore And coming evente cast their shadows before, Shortly after the close of the war between ranco and Germany in 1871, the English darmista seemed unreasonable to an extent that refreed on foolishiness Never was there a period when, to all outward seeming, an invasion of England was less probable or foasible. Emnoe was etricken down and disabled. and amionaly arranged our differences with the United States, and the greatest military nation of the Continent had apparently neither the lianguition nor the power to become a formidable assailant of our independence. If ever there was a country whose interests and constitution pointed to a pacific policy, it was United Germany. She required peace to consolidate ber empire, and she could not make wat without walling the morentile man-from his deak, the professional or literary man from his study, the shopkesper from his counter, and the agriculturiet from the plough. Then, allpowerful on land, she was powerless on the sous. contest between her and the maritime popu between a dog and a fish, in which could quit its proper element for aggressive purposes without imminent risk of discomfiture or destruction. Germany would no more think of sending an almament across the North Seato invade England than Ergland would think of landing an atmy at Hamburg to advance on Berlin. Nor was the navy of the United States sufficiently strong in seagoing ironolade, like the Minotaur or Monarch, to cross the Atlantic and encounter the English in their own waters. So thought and argued the wise men of Engand in 1871. They thought and argued well but wise men, however well they argue, wil cometimes turn out wropg, and they turned out substantially wrong in this instance—as wrong as the Inte lamented Cobden when he made the caprices and their vanity than by their wellanderstood interests and so it fell out that in the year 1874, the greatest of the Continen tal Powers, buying taken umbrage at the tone

With them, at the head of his Hussar regiment, was the Heir Apparent to the Throne, irresistibly impelled by the hereditary courage of his race to disuboy Royal, order (issued from Balmoral) not to leave the sepital. Totpedoes were laid down by doi ille of gumboats, under Bear-Admiral Sherard Ochorn, which withdrow when this duty was performed, and propared to operate on the flank of the Armada when the landing should commence.

It was a time of agitating suspense to the bravest while the ships of war were taking up their positions to cover the landing, and the transports were transferring their armed cargoes to the boats. After ascertaining by oureful sounding that they could approach no nearer. they opened their fire at about the distance of maile. The rooks were shelled, and the strand was swept with roundshot, causing little or no lose to the English, who never showed a finger above rifle pit or tranch, till the landing busta intervened and the iron had necessarily ceased Then a signal gan was heard; the battery the centre of their position was unmaske ! shells and plunging shot from the mound fell thick and fast smong the boats; line of fire run along the beach: the rocks and beights were all in a blaze with musketry. The effect wos withering when volley after volley by practised markemon, each taking an individual sim, poured into boats crowded with men whose orders were to hand and rush to close quarters without returning a shot And gallantly did they struggle to earry out the programme dulf of one boat's crew and wthird of another. some 150 men at the most; did notually reach dry land and make a rush at the trench beld w the Guarda, who shot down most of them as they approached; then sprang up and drove the remainder back into the water with the bayonet. Here occurred one of those incidents which about that modern warfare, with all its mechanical contrivances for wholesale and cold-booded butchery, still affords scope for chivalry and seion of a princely house, was pushed to the although still fighting desperately, when his situation was seen by a young lientenant of the invading mavy from a ship's launch in which he had been carrying orders. Without a moment's besitution he commanded the crew to pull back, and they obeyed with such a will that within a few seconds the bout was run aground but many wards from their gallant countryman, and they were springing to the rescue, when a bull struck the lieutenant and be fell. He snortheed his life to his obivalry and not a man of the beroic boat's erew got

Among the many casualties which added to the confusion a shell exploted in the bout which carried the leader of the headmost division and is Staff, hilling and wounding prost of then and two transports, oarrying artillery, run upon torpedoes and were blown up. Things began to look very unlike Kinderspiel. But large sacrifices had been counted on; it was known and felt that a first landing on the British coast must be effected in the spirit of a forlorn hope, and fresh bonts were burrying in or loading from the transports; when, hark a low rumbling sound. like intermitting thunder, is heard rom far off, across the sea. It is the sound of cannon on the extreme left of the Armada. It can be nothing but the English Channel Fleet A fast steamer had in fact overtaken the Admiral, and, despatching two of his ships to watch the Americans, he had come back (like Desaix at Marengo) to give a decisive turn to the wavering fortunes of the day-the day big with the fats of England, of Europe, of the world. He brought with him seven first-class ronolads, with more than twice on many others of heavy motal, and it was a grand and fearful spectacle, the approach of those magnificent machines, instinct with life and motion, cleaving their way right onward through the thick of the bostlie armament without stopping to engage the ships of war, and running down transport after transport; while almost every shot from their enormous guns sent a ship to the bottom, or left a boatload of gallant men struggling for life in the wayes. If such a fate is appuling to think of or contemplate at a safe distance, what must it have been to those who saw and felt that their own turn was coming-who watched with fixed and fascinated gaze the rush of the iron monster that was about to pass crashing over them P

The military organization of the invading army was beyond all praise; an order emanating from bend-quarters might be said to live slong the line, and the skill to restore a losing battle or effect a retreat was never wanting, any more than the strategy which wins or moroves a victory. But what did such skill avail bere, on an untried element, where soldiers and generals were equally helpless, where strategy was useless and bravery thrown away? All liope of carrying out any pre-organized plan was at an end. Source qui peut became the word among the hired or pressed musters of transports, who, such of them as escaped being run down, made off without waiting to take in tier original freights. The wind rose and soon freshened to a gule. The gunboata which had fallen back before the advancing armament now assuled it on every ide. The fire of shalls was continued from the sights. A desperate sea fight was prolonged till dirk, and partially continued through the night. When morning broke the catastrophe was made clear in all its borrors. The second Armada had abared the fate of the first. Most the aurile monchads were pissing. That which carried Ocean and his fortunes—in order words, the Admiral-Generalissimo and his suite-had received a six-bundred-pound stee!readed shot between wind and water, and had no Atternative but to strike. Princes, Archdukes, and Dakes were made prisoners by the score. The renowned Chief of a brilliant Staff was picked-up in an exhausted state while endeayouring to regain his ship by swimming, after the boat in which he was trying to remedy the confusion had been awamped by the surge; and a Serene Highness, who bud made his way to the shore at the head of his contingent, was with difficulty persuaded to give up his sword to Prince Edward of Sake Weimar, who enacted the part of Bayard to Francis I, at Pavia But we reserve for another chapter the various pisodes of this ever-memorable triumph and

Mr. Knatchbull-Hugessen said, The hon. gentleman has called attention to a subject of considerable importance. It involves a legal mestion which I am not competent to solve. ut I. will state to the House the bare facts of the case. In January last a Chinese coolie was arrested at Hongkong, charged with piracy and murder committed on board a French vessel. La Nouvelle Penclope This vessel had been employed in what is called the Coolie Immigration Serice, and bud on board several bundred co lies. hipped at the Chinese port of Masso, of whom was alleged about 100 had been kidnapped. was not pretended that the prisoner was kidnapped, for, in fact, he pleaded ar alibi, but was recognized as one of the ringleaders of the party which overpowered the crew of the vessel and mardered the cuptum and sight seamen. The Chief Justice of Hongkong directed this man to be discharged upon a writ of habeas corpus, the main ground of his decision being that persons about to be made claves had a right to recover their liberty if they could, and that in so doing he had committed no offence over which the Courts of Hongkone had jurisdiction. The Governor, however, upon an information for piracy laid by the Attorney-General under an ordinance in force in the colony, ordered his re-arrest and committal for trial, and the Chief Justice again ordered his discharge. Under these circumstances, the Governor telegraphed home, the opinion of the law officers of the Orowa bue been taken, and that opinion is to the effect that the crime charged against the prisoner is a crime against the common his of palione, and that he was rightfully arrested, and should be brought to trul for the same. la reply to Sir J. ### EXTRAORDINARY SUICIDE. A MAN HANGS HIMSELF IN THE PRESENCE

(Richmond [Mo.] Republic, May 27th.) On Sunday last, about twelve o'clock, Mr. Henry Gentry, a man about seventy years of age, committed smoids on the farm of Richard Elliot, about a mile northwest from Sandwich a small station on the St. Louis and St. Josep) Railroad, in this county. It appears that the old man had lived an unhappy life for some years past; owing to domestic troubles of a serious nature, and for a short time previous to bis death his anguish was so great that his roason was partially dethroned, and during this period he several times expressed a determina-

the woods near his house, stripped from the tree a long, tough piece of hickory bark, and after carefully examining it he laid it under a stone, distant some twenty yards from the house. It was noticed by members of his family that every day he would go to the stone, and after inspecting the bark, pour water over it his object evidently being to prevent its becoming dry and brittle. Fears were entertained that be would attempt self destruction by this singular mode, but the vigilance of hie family, it was thought, would prevent its accomplish-

Yet, on Sunday, while no one was watching bim, he took the bark, and going to a tree near by, which forked a few feet from the ground he placed a pole in the fork, and getting up on this he tied one end of the bark ever a strong limb, and making the noose in the other launch bimself into eternity. At this time his wife discovered him, and running towards LYALL & Co. the tree, attempted to stop him; but in vain for, as she approached him, be ordered her away, and, with as outh upon his lips, be swang himself out from the fork. His wife ran to him, and catching him round the body attempted to hold him up, while she called to one of her daughters to run and bring her a knife with which to out the bark, but the poor girl being so bewildered by the horrifying spectacle, failed either to bear or comprehend, and starting in a directly opposite direction, ran with all ber might away from the house. Mr. Gentry being a large man, his wife was anable to support his weight, and in a short time strangulation rendered life extinct.

The poor man, after first swinging off, threw up his hands, and catching hold of the bark, attempted to draw himself up, but his breath was the nearly gone for the effort to be encounful. The family at once alarmed the neighbours, and, after a Coroner's inquest was hold, the body was prepared for burisl. On Monday the remains were consigned to a grave in Orouled River Cemetery, with appropriate coremonies ...
